ATLAS D site...

Here are some pictures of the interior of the command center in the Atlas D ICBM site... not many photos were taken in the excitement and exploration...

Located in an area that had large racks of something...possibly war heads??? not sure on this one...

bathrooms in te barraks they hadnt' been used or cleaned in a while...lets say 30 years...

Some old communication board located in command center.

This is one of the launch buildings when it was in operation, the atlas D missile is being backed into the launch building.

Those are all the pictures I have of it...one of the other guys who had a camera along has some more and I may get around to posting thoses.
